Renewable Energy

Access to financing and the dependence on government support are critical issues that often influence the renewable energy industry. However, businesses in this industry have many opportunities they can take advantage of, including green marketing and positive impacts on the environment.

We understand your big picture and can offer you strategic business advice to help you get there in today's complex business environment and turbulent economy. For more than 20 years, Boulay has served 50 private and public renewable energy clients representing fuels, wind energy, and solar energy. Providing products and services from the development stage to initial public offerings to fully operational, we help you reach your business goals.

How we help you get there

Boulay is a full-service CPA firm with a well-known reputation of producing only the highest quality audit, accounting, tax and consulting work. We focus on serving renewable energy clients, offering you a uniquely compatible combination of industry knowledge, technical expertise and personalized service. Our services for the renewable energy industry include:

Assurance

We offer audit, review and compilation services tailored to meet:
